

Hello all!

First off, I am delighted to know that within the matter of a week, we can reestablish our learning opportunity online. This will provide us with a platform to engage in learning at a higher level and in a fuller shape. Anyway, for this week I am sending you a worksheet on prepositions. You already know that different languages involve different uses of prepositions and this has posed challenges to language learners. Therefore, practicing prepositions is never enough. Lastly, I would like to introduce a vocabulary building application for cell phones called Word Stacks. Hope it can help you recycle your vocabulary.

Best,
